SAMOAN AFFAIRS.

An Extended Interview With Secretary Bayard.

HE DESCRIBES THE COURSE OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT

In Relation to the Trouble and the Latest Phases of the Question, and Says Germany Has Given Us No Cause for War.
Whitney Declines to Make Public Captain Mullen's Report.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30.—The Sun's correspondent called upon Secretary Bayard at his residence, and had an extended interview with him on the Samoan question. Mr.
Bayard described the course of the department of state in relation to Samoan affairs and the latest phases of the question. To the statement that the administration has been twitted with having no definite policy on the Samoan question, he referred to the president's message to congress and accompanying documents, which he says show that the administration long ago defined its policy with reference to the Samoan islands, and has consistently adhered to it ever since, that policy was one of friendly interest in Samoa with neutrality.

So long as the other powers having interest on the island—Great Britain and Germany—were concerned, he has exhausted the arts of diplomacy to secure the Samoan people the right to govern themselves and protection from foreign control. Germany and Great Britain both assented to the policy, and the acts of Germany, inconsistent with her professions, have grown out of petty political intrigues among native chiefs and the rivalry of foreigners for influence and commercial supremacy. With regard to the failure of this government to protest vigorously against Germany's treatment of the Samoan king, Mr. Bayard states that he had no authority for such a course. Malietoa was not a citizen of the United States, and American rights had in no way been invaded. Germany claimed that he had violated his treaty obligations, and that he was an enemy whom she had the right to seize.

Mr. Bayard said he did what the treaty with Samoan obligated this country to do. He used the good offices of this country again and again in Malietoa's behalf but without result. Mr. Bayard states that from the very beginning of the Samoan troubles Germany has professed the utmost friendliness to the United States and regard for American interest on the islands. Only Monday he received a communication from the German minister, expressing a sincere desire to reach a settlement satisfactory to both countries.

The whole trouble, in Mr. Bayard's opinion, is due to the cause of the German trading companies which have large interests in the islands. They have striven to commit their government to indorsement of acts intended to promote their interests and practically to secure their control of affairs. The whole question for Americans to consider, Mr. Bayard says, is whether we shall continue to maintain neutrality as between Mataafa and the Germans or assume the role of belligerents toward Germany in behalf of one or two claimants to the throne.

So far, Germany has given the United States absolutely no cause for war. It is not true that American property has been wantonly destroyed by the Germans or the American flag fired upon. He said the tattered remnants of the flag said to have been fired upon by the Germans had been received at the state department. It was not the flag at the American consulate, but was in a little village which was being shelled by the Germans. The village took fire and the flag was partially burned. It was not hoisted in assention of any American rights and was not fired upon or insulted. Besides the German government has expressly disclaimed any intention of giving this country any cause of offense.

In reply to those who contrast the vigorous course of Secretary Bayard toward the puny republic of Hayti with his alleged timitude in dealing with the big empire of Germany, the secretary said the situations in Hayti and Samoa were widely different.

Hayti had distinctly violated its treaty obligations to this country and had seized an American vessel. The United States in this instance had the right to act alone, for it alone was concerned in the proceedings complained of.

In the Samoan islands, on the other hand, American interests are only indirectly threatened. The coaling station at Pango Pango, secured to the United States by treaty, is not involved. Pango Pango is on another island, and Germany does not seek to interfere with our authority there. The Germans are confronted with pretty much the same situation in Samoa as that in which the United States were involved with Hayti.

They claim that the Samoans, as did the Haytiens, broke their treaty engagements, and that they have the right to punish them.

In this connection Secretary Bayard stated an interesting fact. During the troubles growing out of the seizure of the Haytian Republic steamer the French representatives in Hayti is said to have interfered for the purpose of bringing about the confiscation of the vessel. Secretary Bayard communicated this fact to the French government which promptly disavowed its agent's conduct.

Mr. Bayard does not think that Germany will be likely to do anything calculated to offend this country seriously if she can help it.

Speaking of the commission which met in Washington in 1887 to consider the Samoan question, Mr. Bayard said: "The protocol, or minutes of the conference were considered as confidential at the request of the British representative, Lord Sackville. In reply to a suggestion from Mr. Bayard that the protocol be made public, Lord Sackville said that her majesty's government are of the opinion that, pending the reassembling of the conference, its proceedings should be considered confidential. The German representative, when asked the same question, said:

Those protocols, in view of the interruption and heretofore fruitless course of the conferences, which have yielded no definite result, are not suited for publication."

The protocol will show that the first conference was held June 25, 1887, at the state department and that six or seven subsequent conferences were held. The last conference was held on July 26, on which occasion there was a deadlock. The German minister submitting one proposition, and Mr. Bayard another as to the manner in which Samoa should be governed. The conference adjourned to meet again in August following.

Mr. Bayard says he was, therefore, taken wholly by surprise when the German minister called at the state department one morning in August and left a memorandum stating that his government proposed to independently protect its own interests and rights in Samoa and obtain the satisfaction and reparation deemed to be due to its National honor; also in case Malietoa was either not willing or not powerful enough to give the necessary satisfaction for the past and sufficient guarantees for the future, to declare war against him and refuse to recognize his government.

Referring to Senator Sherman's resolution providing for the appropriation of $500,000 for maintaining a United States coaling station at Samoa, Secretary Bayard said that a great deal had been said about the prompt and patriotic action of the senate in this particular. In the first place if the Republican senators are sincere in the intention to protect American interest in Samoa against the alleged outrages of the German government $500,000 is a very small amount to go to war on. It would not purchase the 1,000,000 tons of coal which certain Republican senators say should be landed there, nor would it build a single gunboat.

Captain Mullen Submits a Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Secretary Whitney has received a long report from Capt.
Mullen, commanding the United States steamer Nipic, dated at Apia, Samoa, December 26, giving a detailed account of occurrences on those islands since December 3, the date of his last report to the department, and covering the period of the engagements between the natives and the Germans, and of the alleged insults to the American flag.

A copy of the report will be furnished to the secretary of state, and will probably be transmitted to congress the latter part of this week, together with the correspondence received, on Saturday, from acting Consul General Blacklock, on the same subject. The officials refuse positively to make public, at this time, any of this correspondence, confining themselves to the simple statement that there is nothing in it that has not already appeared in the newspaper accounts of the same occurrences.

Representative Herbert, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, at the state department Monday, and had a conference with Secretary Bayard in regard to the situation. It is reported as likely that the president will have something more to say on the subject when he sends to congress the correspondence which has taken place since his last message.

Monday's Baltimore Sun, the organ of Secretary Bayard, in an elaborate article on "Indecision in Our Samoan Policy," says:
"The executive branch of the government is apparently firm in the opinion that its jurisdiction is absolutely terminated until decisive action of some character is taken by the legislative branch. The sight of the tattered flag, dishonored by German soldiers, ought to be a sufficient spur for the American congress to speak without delay in language which will be echoed round the world."

Dissensions in the Cabinet.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—A Washington special to the Post says: There have been for several days rumors that there is a sharp difference of opinion in the cabinet on account of the Samoan complication. The latest form which the rumor has taken is that Secretary Whitney or Secretary Bayard may resign. Attempts made this morning to obtain any authorized information on this subject were not successful. A United States senator says he is informed that there is much feeling between the president and secretary of state on account of the Samoan matter, and that the estrangement is of a serious character. This senator says that the president holds Secretary Bayard responsible for the situation, while friends of Secretary Bayard insist that the president has interfered in the affairs of the state department and is wholly responsible.

Blaine's Samoa Policy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Senators Hale, Evarts and Cameron have had a private conference with Blaine, which lasted more than an hour. The Samoan question was the subject of discussion. Blaine gave his views very freely as to the action he believed the state department should take in the present emergency. He also outlined the policy he would suggest in disposing of legislation proposed in the house naval committee, in response to Whitney's presentation of the case.

While no one of the gentlemen present will discuss in detail the views expressed by Blaine, it is generally understood he outlined a decidedly vigorous policy. The affair naturally assumes no little significance, in view of the extreme probability that Blaine will take charge of the state department and is wholly responsible.

Ready for War.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 30.—Gen. Orton has received numerous applications from volunteers for service in case of war with Samoa. At the present rate, 10,000 men could be raised in thirty days in California.

Lattin Shelton publicly horsewhipped A. J. cemetery. Burgess was severely injured.

Aberdeen Marriages.

'Squire Massie Beasley, the venerable matrimonialist of Aberdeen, informs the BULLETIN that there were fifty-one marriages at his office during the month of December—forty-two whites and nine colored. During the month of January, up to the present date, he has married seventeen couples. They hailed from different parts of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and other places. This is a pretty good showing in the matrimonial line.

The Little Helper's Society of the Baptist Church will give a lunch and supper in the McGranahan building, corner Third and Market streets, on Friday afternoon and evening, February 1st. They have not appealed to the public often.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Notes and Comments by Superintendent Galbraith for 1888-89.

MURPHYSVILLE—NO. 1.

There are seventy-one pupils on roll with an average attendance of thirty-eight.

The trustees are Dr. G. W. Gault, Geo. Galbreath and John Wright. Mr. Wright has visited the school and has been attentive in looking after its wants, but there is not that interest on the part of the patrons which is desirable. The house is not comfortable, though fairly well furnished. There will probably be a new one built soon. The teacher in his report makes a new house his most prominent suggestion.

Mr. Thomas Chandler is teaching this school, and successfully, too. He is a faithful and well equipped teacher, and has the confidence of his pupils, and as a consequence secures their best efforts. He has succeeded very well with the written work, his greatest difficulty being the irregularity in attendance on the part of the pupils.

MINERVA—NO. 3.

There are fifty-seven pupils in all, with an average attendance of 35. Lillie Lister has lost no time.

Of the trustees only William King has visited the school. The patrons are probably interested in the school, but have given the teacher no manifestation of it. The school room is comfortable, but needs refurbishing.

This school is taught by Mrs. Lizzie Orr, who for five years has occupied this position, and I am happy to state that her work has improved steadily from year to year. She has very successfully used the written work this year. I was especially impressed with the uniform improvement and neatness in penmanship displayed by her pupils as well as by their earnest and faithful work in their studies. The discipline of the school is first-class.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

SHANNON.

Sardis is to have a female lecturer on Sunday and Monday nights.

Misses Em Trigg and Alma Riggan, the former of Olivet, the latter of Rectorville, are visiting in this locality.

Alex McFord has rented a farm near Paris, Charles Weaver, an ex-Mason, has bought a farm near Millersburg.

Mr. Charlie Bland manufactures an article of crab cider as clear as spring water, and as finely flavored as Toka wine.

Two of the brightest boys from the Maiden City of Harrison County, John Poindexter and Walker Taylor, are guests of the Misses Bland.

Misses Pyles, Dyson and Bland are home again after a pleasant two weeks' carriage drive, visiting relatives in Fleming, Bath and Nauvoo counties.

Mrs. Sue Wright closed her little academy at this place Friday last, celebrating the hundred and thirtieth anniversary of Robert Burns' birthday—Scotland's great song writer.

The incessant rainfall of Sunday last prevented the coming of the expected guests at the dining at Mr. A. O. White's. The new dish that was served was deliciously prepared by Mrs. A. O. White.

The silver-tongued Madam Grundy says: A gay thirty-year-old bachelor of Sardis is busily wooing and will probably win and shortly lead to Hymen's altar one of Mrs. D. S. Sweet's and most charming girl-widows.

GERMANTOWN.

Evan Lloyd is an invalid.

Miss Anna Pumpelly and Mrs. C. C. Irwin have the mumps.

Dr. A. H. Wall and wife spent several days last week with Dr. Dillman.

Professor Hayes Thomas proposes to teach a select school after the expiration of his present term.

Mrs. Sudie Holmes, of Mt. Olivet, will spend several days with Miss Fannie Pollock, who is but slightly convalescent from her serious sickness.

A meeting of the farmers was called for last Saturday afternoon to consult on the proposition to plant a decreased acreage of tobacco, but it was very thinly attended. So far as we can learn the sentiment of the planters in this section they are slow to adopt the suggestion. Tobacco with most of them is "the staff of life" and as long as they can realize from 6 to 10 cents 'round them will grow it.

MURPHYSVILLE.

Mrs. Mary A. Collins returned to her home in Bourbon County last Monday morning.

This place is now suffering a meat famine. A little new bacon and a few fat chickens, turkeys, &c., would bring a good price.

Last Sunday was truly a disagreeable day. Rain, sleet, snow and rain, and at night a cold breeze struck us and left us with the appearance of winter.

One addition at the Christian Church last Sunday—John Clift. He has baptized the same hour of the day in Judge Wilson's pond by the pastor, Rev. F. M. Tindler, who is doing a noble work among us.

RAILROAD NEWS.

What the Louisville Commercial Says of the Rumored Sale of the K. C.

Says the Louisville Commercial: “The news that the Kentucky Central Railroad is for sale is not surprising. Mr. Huntingdon only needed it to give him a Cincinnati connection, and now that he has that by way of his new Mayville and Big Sandy, the Kentucky Central is unnecessary to his system. It is reported that the L. and N. are bidders for it, and also the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia people. The latter need it to give them a desired Northern outlet. The L. and N. may find use for it as a check on the Cincinnati Southern, otherwise an outsider does not readily see what they want with it. If the L. and N. could get the Maysville and Lexington part of it, that would give them an excellent feeder for their Lexington road and open up to this market a valuable territory which has been lost to it for many years.

It might be a good thing for the two competitors to divide the purchase, the L. and N. taking the line from Lexington to Maysville, and the East Tennessee taking the line from Covington through Paris and Richmond to Livingstone. If the East Tennessee gets into Cincinnati it will be as much interested in holding the Cincinnati Southern down to business as the L. and N. will. The Commercial, in the interest of Louisville and Kentucky—of Louisville, which needs a Maysville and blue grass connection, and Kentucky, which will be benefited by connection with the powerful East Tennessee system—would like to see the Kentucky Central system divided as above suggested. That arrangement would certainly be hailed with delight by the blue grass people.”

Captain W. J. Wash, who for several months has been engaged on construction work on the Cincinnati Division of the Chesapeake and Ohio, has again resumed the duties of Roadmaster with the Kentucky Central, with headquarters at Paris, Ky.—Enquirer.

On the 10th of next month new time-cards will go into effect on both the Kentucky Central and Chesapeake and Ohio roads. On that date additional passenger trains will be put on the Cincinnati Division of the C. & O.

Louis S. Stewart, formerly Chief Train Dispatcher for the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Road, with headquarters at Pittsburg, has been appointed Train-Dispatcher on the Kentucky Central with headquarters at Paris, Ky., taking the vacancy caused by the promotion of W. H. Anderson.

FIGHTING FOR DAMAGES.

The Legal Contest Between Some Fifth Ward Citizens and the M. & B. S. Railroad Company.

Mr. W. W. Lynch sued the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad Company last fall for $3,500 damages.

He resides on the north side of Third street, Fifth ward, and claims that the cutting down of that thoroughfare by the company damaged his property to the amount named in his petition.

The railroad company in its answer, denied first that the plaintiff had been damaged and then plead that in cutting the street down it acted under authority granted by the City Council of Maysville. The City Council established the grade of the street, it claimed, and the cut conformed to that grade. This was pleaded by the company in jurisdiction of what it had done. The plaintiffs demurred to the latter plea and the demurer was heard this week in the Circuit Court.

Messrs. Wall & Worthington and T. C. Campbell are attorneys for plaintiffs and Messrs. Wadsworth & Son, Whitaker & Robertson and A. M. J. Cochran represent the company. Arguments were made by Messrs. Robertson, Worthington, Campbell and Hon. W. H. Wadsworth. Judge Cole rendered his decision yesterday, sustaining plaintiff's demurser.

The question of damages was not passed on, but remains to be settled by a jury which was empanelled this morning. The result of the trial is awaited with much interest by the owners of property on the street.

Mr. Geo. T. Wood, who owns property on the south side of the street, has a suit pending against the company for $10,000 damages, this claim being based on the grounds set forth in Mr. Lynch's case.

THE Lexington Drummer says: “One of the saddest things to be observed is the large number of real good Kentucky tobacco worms that are spoiled annually by medical colleges. When God creates a man especially to kill tobacco worms, it is wrong for them to try to practice medicine. It multiplies worms and kills off people.”

MISS MATTIE CARE, the milliner, was married last evening at 7:30 o'clock to Mr. Wm. B. Smith, who came to this city last fall from some point in Indiana. The nuptial ceremony was solemnized by Elder R. C. Ricketts at his home on Front street in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The couple left on the steamer Sherley for Pittsburgh and other points on their bridal trip.

COLONEL BALDWIN, of Mason, is so impressed with the tobacco abstention movement that he will only put in a half crop, and will aim to raise it as fine as split silk. If all of the producers would do that every year, there would be no trouble about small prices. Tenants wouldn't even have to burn their barns for insurance money. First-class goods are always marketable at paying prices. —Bourbon News.

Two of the luckiest young men in the city of Dayton, O., are Edmond C. and George C. They have always been honest and hard-working. Their father, Casper Albert, a respectable barber, died several years ago and they have had hard and uphill work assisting their widowed mother to support the family.—Dayton (O.) McAtee, who has been on day duty at the latter place succeeds Mr. Everett as night Storekeeper. Mr. E. W. Fitzgerald continues as gauger.

MR. STANLEY L. POTTER, who has been assistant draughtsman and principal clerk in the office of Chief Engineer Childe during the construction of the Maysville and Big Sandy railroad, will resign his position Friday and leave for Cincinnati to engage in business as a member of The Miner & Rossiter Furniture Company, at 262 Race street, opposite Shiloh's. The incorporators of the company are J. C. W. Miner, H. M. Rossiter, Stanley L. Potter, H. Clay Moore and D. G. Montfort. The Commercial Gazette says: “It is probable that no firm ever started with the number of warm friends that this one has.” During his stay here Mr. Potter has made friends of all whom he has met, by his strict attention to business and his gentlemanly conduct on all occasions, and they will sincerely regret to see him leave Maysville.

WHO'LL BE NEXT?

Singular Experience of the Oklahoma Bill in the House.

DEATH STEPS IN WHENEVER IT IS CALLED UP FOR DEBATE.

Chief Justice Waite, General Phil. Sheridan and Congressman Burnes—The Case Probably Without Parallel in the History of Legislation—Colonel Lamont Tired of Politics.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The Oklahoma bill has had a curious experience in the house, one that has probably not been matched in the history of legislation. On each occasion that a day has been fixed for its consideration, the house has been adjourned on account of the death of some public man. Mr. Springer, who is the author and champion of the bill, secured a special order for a vote upon the measure last winter, but on the date fixed the unexpected death of Chief Justice Waite caused the house to adjourn.

It was some time before Mr. Springer could get another special order through the house, but he succeeded late in the summer. Again death interfered; for on the day upon which the special order was to take effect the demise of Gen. Sheridan was announced. Each succeeding attempt was met by increased difficulties, but by a compromise of the opposition Mr. Springer had a special order fixed to take effect on Thursday last. It was on that day that Mr. Burn's death was announced to the house, and the consequent adjournment once more interfered to prevent consideration of the bill.

The last order, however, is continuous until the final vote is reached. Mr. Springer will call up the measure as soon as the sundry civil appropriation bill is disposed of, which will be one day during the present week.

Members are beginning to wonder if the angel of death will again spread his wings in the face of Mr. Springer's pet measure, and, if so, which of their number will be the victim.

Dan. Lamont's Plans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—A report reached here that Governor Hill will appoint Dan. Lamont state insurance superintendent of New York. Lamont denies it, and says he has had enough political employment.

"I have made a business connection in New York, to begin March 5," he says, "which promises better compensation for the hard work, and is much more attractive for me in every way than political service. I am a candidate for no public position."

Buried Under Falling Walls.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 30.—The walls of the burned opera house have fallen, crushing wooden buildings adjoining and burying a number of people, including two firemen, in the ruins.

STREET CAR STRIKE.

New Yorkers Compelled to Walk or Stay at Home—Small Riot.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Nearly three years has elapsed since New Yorkers have been forced to walk to business through a tie up of the surface roads. The last tie up, in June, 1886, was a disastrous one for the men. For some time past the men have been quietly preparing to renew the struggle and in accordance with a decision reached Monday evening nearly all the roads have been tied up.

The men some two weeks ago made a demand on the company for $2 per day for ten hours' work in twelve consecutive hours. No reply was received, hence the tie up. The men, in a long address to the public, set forth their grievances, and ask its support.

The strikers comprise the employees of the First, Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth and Ninth avenue, Broadway, University Place, Belt, Dry Dock, Avenue B, Avenue D, Courtland street, Grand street, Forty-second street, Central, Crosstown, Chambers street, Avenue C, Boulevard, St. Nicholas avenue, and One Hundred and Tenth street, Harlem, Morrisania and Fordham, One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street and Port Morris lines.

The Third avenue, Twenty-third street, Fourteenth street, Bleeker street and Christopher street lines, have not been tied up.

A car on Grand street, driven by John Mahoney and escorted by policemen, was attacked by the strikers at Attorney street. The police resisted vigorously with their clubs, but the mob unthatched the horses upset the car and then slowly retired.

The tie up on the Dry Dock & East Broadway line was a sympathetic one, because of the Brooklyn tie up. Deacon Richardson, president of the Atlantic Avenue lines, Brooklyn, being a large stockholder in the Dry Dock & East Broadway company, they had no trouble about hours or pay.

The strikers number several thousand, and seem to be determined in their stand.

The streets and avenues through which the car lines pass have a deserted appearance.

The three strikers charged with the killing of Adams, in Brooklyn, are held for murder.

Flood in the South.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 30.—A considerable part of the country is overflowed about thirty miles above here by the levees giving way. An aged negro was rescued in a skiff, and carried to his cousin's house, but was refused admittance. He was frozen to death on a hillside.
